ALCOVE MODIFICATION

While trying to find reference photos for the Sleeping Beauty Castle paper model, I noticed something odd in a popular photo. In the early years that Disneyland was open, there was a small alcove in the rear of the castle (see below). Since then, the alcove has been sealed and replaced with three windows.

This mod gives you the option of having this alcove in your model. Simply discard piece 8L in the original model parts, and use the modified version (right). It is recommended that you assemble this mod before you proceed with the original model instructions on page 13. Additional mod parts and illustrated instructions follow.
